SABOTAGE IN ITALY

2015 -2016

actforfree.nostate.net

For 7 months our comrades Tommi, Pippo and Andre have been held under house arrest, accused of sabotaging neo-fascist premises in the Parma area.

In a world where the only interests that will ever be defended are those of banks and industrial giants, it is normal that policemen are brandished as defenders of order and the fascists are having their political legitimacy restored. The role chosen by fascists and policemen throughout History is that of the bosses' guard dogs ready to defend the privileges of the rich against any claim for social justice and freedom.

So we're not surprised that at times when social tension is rising and the contradictions of the democratic farce come to the surface, repression and fascists are recycled to weaken the 'antagonist' and revolutionary movement.

As antifascists we chose which side of the barricade we want to be on a long time ago, against all arrogance and injustice and for freedom without compromise.

To all women and the men who are surviving in everyday life and see society as the problem and not the solution, we remember that no one ever gives anything away in this world!

Change is possible but it requires people's awareness passing to action without delay! Workers in struggle who block production in the factories that exploit them, immigrants who set fire to the concentration camps they're locked up in, youths who throw stones and firecrackers at fascist rallies and the police vehicles that protect them... all demonstrate that the need for change can't be put off!

Our city, Modena, has a glorious history of resistance: years of peasants' and workers' struggles, the first GAP partisan groups, liberation from the fascists, the struggle in the iron foundries, the widespread disgust for the soldiers who occupy Palazzo Ducale, the local centre of identification and deportation ransacked by the prisoners themselves...

LET'S TAKE THE EXAMPLE OF THE PAST AND CARRY ON ALONG THE SAME ROAD!
ANARCHISTS AND ANTIFASCISTS OF MODENA

Trentino, Italy – A few notes on struggle and repression

Police bungles

While Villa Assillo squat was being evicted on 14th July [in Trento], the court of review decided on the case of three comrades subjected to regularly reporting to the police station following precisely the occupation of that squat. The court of review revoked the measure. Why? In their haste to impose no matter what restrictive measure, prosecutors had accused the comrades of the wrong offence: 'trespassing' instead of 'occupation of building'. Shame that 'trespassing' means that a building has to be inhabited (and not empty for fifteen years). On the contrary, 'occupation of building' doesn't involve any restrictive measure.

In September

The hearing that was to decide on the special surveillance order against a comrade, and which was due on 16th July, was postponed to 10th September because the comrade involved had not been notified the date of the hearing.

35 thousand spits

In the usual media circus that followed the eviction of Villa Assillo, the new police chief of Trento, Massimo D'Ambrosio, stood out for creativity. After declaring that it is not only the institutions and the forces of order that have to isolate anarchists but also the entire 'civil society', this man announced that the police would bring a civil action to the trial against the assillanti [squatters of the Assillo].

The idea is that the squatters themselves pay back the 35 thousand euros used to pay the estate's officers mobilized during the eviction of the Assillo. As they couldn't demand compensation for 'damages', as occurred for the events of 27th June and 3rd July 2011 in Valsusa, the police want back the money that the State paid for its 'service to society'. It would be the first time in Italy, and the police chief said that he would address the attorney general for clarifications on the subject. Make the evicted squatters pay for the costs of the eviction: bet you'd never thought of that. Given that they even want to take DNA samples from some comrades, a good compromise could be this one: give them 35 thousand spits.

A sharper than usual strike

During the occupation of Villa Assillo, some workers of Orvea supermarket (located in the same neighbourhood in Trento) proposed organizing together a day of struggle against the worsening of their work conditions (besides working longer hours workers would lose 200 euros in wages per month under the new management). Aware that the usual pre-announced strikes don't do any harm to the bosses, the idea was: a picket to invite customers not to shop. That's what happened Saturday 18th July from 8am to 7pm. Among leaflets, talks, banners, food and drinks, only about forty customers stepped inside the supermarket out of an average of 1,300 who go there on Sundays.

Quite considerable damage to the new management. But the most interesting point is that in spite of the paternalistic atmosphere that usually characterizes the management of supermarkets, some workers did away with feelings of loyalty and affirmed their own interests by being 'disloyal' to the company. The idea is to carry on with similar initiatives.

Stones

In the local press we read that between 23:00 and 24:00 on Sunday 19th 2015 July, a group of hooded ones (aged from ten to twenty, according to their sources) began to stone the headquarters of the fire brigade in Trento. The action, which the press linked to recent evictions aided by zealous firemen, caused 10 thousand euros of damage to windows.

Modena, Italy – Fascists and police: the usual servants of the bosses

MARCH 2016

FASCISTS AND POLICE THE USUAL SERVANTS OF THE BOSSES

The Northern League and Forza Nuova are playing a dirty game organizing rallies in the city centre, torchlit processions, pseudo security patrols, inciting racial hatred and homophobia; in perfect accord with the powers that be, democratic politicians and wealthy tycoons, they are in favour of war, the war of poor against poor; just ask your grandfather who they are, what happened with Mussolini in Russia, or ask your mother if she remembers the Bologna massacre...

While this is going on under the disgusted eyes of many people of Modena, the Police, faithful ally of the right, have intimidated, banned, repressed and arrested antifascists. In 10 days alone: 2 comrades are banned from the city after getting 'orders to leave' by the police chief: they're guilty of putting posters whose antifascist content could lead to unrest. 2 antifascists are arrested following a provocation set up by the police as they go to raid some squatted council flats. 26 antifascists are served with 'injunction to pay' (a total of 70,000 euros) for an 'unauthorized' demonstration in solidarity with Emilio, a comrade from Cremona brutally injured after being ambushed by neo-fascists. 13 communist militants are ordered to report to the police station every day following a demonstration against ACER and its disgusting policies on housing issues.

On the roof of a five-storey building – Nave Assillo squat for three months – nine comrades are singing and dancing, their gazes turned to the considerable group of people who've gathered in solidarity since early morning at the entrance to the street heavily guarded by the cops.

The eviction of the Nave, which began at 6:45am, concludes after 9pm, as the last squatter comes down from the roof. In the meantime, a small march has gone through the city from the Faculty of Sociology to S. Pio, with speeches and graffiti, and has eventually joined the demo in the neighbourhood.

The new Assillo has been visited by hundreds of people over three months – for talks, dinners, concerts. Many of these people are at today's solidarity demo, including the workers in struggle at Ovrea. Some residents of the neighbourhood come along curious. Someone brings food. Some other goes on cursing. Two banners hastily written with markers appear on the balconies of the houses neighbouring the Nave:

'In solidarity with you' and 'Empty houses stink of rot and defeat'.

Precious words that fly over a street full of military boots, shields and uniforms.

Three hundred officers deployed to evict a dozen comrades, while police chief D'Ambrosio, just as he had done with Villa Assillo, talks rubbish and demands the squatters to repay about 50 thousand euros spent... for their eviction.

But the poor police chief is right about two things. The first is that it was wise for the Police to wait the end of Christmas's little markets in order to avoid marches in the centre... The second is that the Assillo squatters will be squatting again. The ITESA empty flats ready for property speculation are a thousand three hundred. To react to squatting by militarizing the neighbourhoods, demolishing roofs and walling up doors and windows won't do it.

We are those of what's important is what's right, not what's legal.

We are those whose of 'our passion for freedom is stronger than any authority'.

We are those of you can also dance on the roof.

To the boarding of the next ship!

Fornase di Spinea, Venice – Attempted sabotage against the high speed railway TAV

From the press of the regime (Il Mattino di Padova 23.02.2015) we learn that an incendiary device has been found in Fornase di Spinea near the Venice-Padua high speed railway, consisting of a bottle filled with petrol and a soaked cloth.

It was found inside a 'drain' containing electric cables. It follows the same pattern as the attack carried out on the TAV railway in Bologna a few months ago. The Digos [political police] are investigating insurrectional-anarchists.

Turin - Of the four comrades arrested following resistance to a police raid, two are to remain in prison and two have been transferred to house arrest

Fifty fifty
macerie @ June 23, 2015

The response of the magistrate to the release instance filed by lawyers for Erika, Paolo, Toshi and Marco, in jail after the negative outcome of the Review, came a little sooner than expected. [The comrades were remanded in custody on 20th May 2015 following their resistance to a police raid against undocumented migrants that took place on 2nd February 2015.] If Erika had had to extend her stay in the nation's prisons on pretext of a technical defect, the news came today that not only for her but also for Mark the custodial measure has been converted. Both will get out later in the day to remain under house arrest, of course with all the restrictions as has been the case for Luigi. There was certainly little better to expect; these days when even such a tiny investigation as this becomes an opportunity to get rid of 'some incurable pain in the neck' for a while, it would be rather naive to think that they could be freed in a short time. We are not surprised then that for Paul and Toshi the prison doors have still not opened.

To write them, here are their addresses:

Here is the text of the poster on the Northern League march:

The League and police the same shit

On Tuesday 12th January a well-participated meeting was held at Nave Assillo squat to discuss the reaction to a possible eviction. The meeting was also an occasion to launch opposition to a march 'against degradation' organized by the Northern League and scheduled on Saturday 16th January in Trento.

On the Saturday about sixty comrades descended upon the entrance to via Andrea Pozzo and prepared to not accept the parade of the League's reactionary clowns passively. As the Northern League members arrived on the scene, the Police ordered two charges against the demonstrators in via Pozzo and via Cavour. A united response limited the number of injured, and the comrades later marched to piazza Fiera.

Since new police chief D'Ambrosio took over in Trento, it was the third time in eight months that antiriot cops and carabinieri used truncheons against those who struggle: it happened in piazza S. Maria after the eviction of the Assillo of via Manzoni, in Novaline di Mattarello to defend a TAV excavator and finally last Saturday.

We draw this conclusion: those who don't want to bow their heads need to organize self-defence in the streets.

And we point out that the Northern League can't even set up a gazebo in the city without antiriot cops protecting them, as we saw happening three times in a dozen days in the neighbourhood of S. Pio X.

The police are the armed hand of those who really degrade our lives: the bosses, bankers, property owners and democratic, fascist and reactionary politicians.

Saturday's charges were coldly ordered with the purpose of striking any form of unmediated and untamed dissent.

They got it wrong with their calculations, Andreatta and his henchmen. We're stubborn.

We are relaunching class solidarity in the streets.

Cops and racists out of the neighbourhoods.

Assillo squatters

Here is the text of the poster on the eviction of Nave Assillo squat:

Sail ship, sail

Angelino

Two cell phone masts went up in flames in the night of Thursday 14th January in northern Trento. Forza Italia demanded the intervention of the Ministry of the Interior against Trento anarchists, after the press attributed the arson to the latter.

Truncheons

On Saturday 16th January, in the centre of Trento, antiriot cops and carabinieri of the Laives battalion charged about sixty comrades on two occasions, as the comrades were challenging a march 'against degradation' promoted by the Northern League (below the poster distributed in the following days).

Three hundred

The number of officers deployed on 19th January for the eviction of Nave Assillo squat, an operation that went on from 6:45am to 9pm at via S. Pio X remained under siege (below the poster distributed in the following days).

Antifona

On Friday 22nd January a considerable group of workers and people in solidarity stormed the offices of Mak construction company in Lavis (Trento) and made it clear to the owner – who turned up about an hour later – that they did not intend to accept the dismissal of a worker and the continuous harassment inflicted on him and three other colleagues for refusing to sign a contract that made their working conditions worse. Outside the offices first police and carabinieri vans and later even an antiriot squad made their appearance.

Bologna, Incendiary attack on a TAV railway line and police raid

Bologna: in the night of 23rd December 2014 a fire burst out in the pits containing cables for the regulation of railway traffic on the TAV railway line near the station of Bologna Santa Viola.

Digos officers raided four anarchists' homes in Bologna on the following morning, looking for weapons and explosives (art. 41 tulpis). The search came to nothing.

Trento, Attack on the Battisti military barracks and some words from the editors of Rompere le righe [Break the ranks]

'Trento. Attack on the Battisti barracks: a vehicle damaged, a spanner in the gears of war.'

From the local media we learned with joy that in the night of 16th February 2015 a Molotov cocktail was thrown over the walls of the Battisti military barracks in Trento and hit a military vehicle, setting it on fire.

The Battisti barracks host the 'second Alpine sappers regiment', 'élite unit', of the Alpine army, which is part of the 'Julia' brigade.

With this short communiqué we want to highlight the responsibility of these assassins in uniforms in all the wars and massacres perpetrated by the Italian military in the last century. The second Alpine sappers regiment was deployed in the military occupation of Afghanistan (in 2010 and in 2013), in that of Bosnia-Herzegovina (from 1998 to 2004), in the massacres carried out by the Italian army in Somalia in the mid-nineties, in Mozambique and in the third invasion of Albania in 1993 ('Operation Pellicano').

We think we're not being rhetorical or superfluous as we reconfirm that the 'medal collection' of this exclusive unit of the Italian army is dripping with blood as it disgustingly 'distinguished' itself in the repression of the peasants' resistance in southern Italy soon after the Unification of Italy, in the colonization of Eritrea and Libya and in the anti-partisan war in the Balkans during the second world war.

Trento , Bank attacked in solidarity with AS2 prisoners and against the TAV February 21 2015

According to the press of the regime (l'Adige) a branch of BTB bank was attacked in Trento during the night between Friday and Saturday last week: windows smashed, ATMs put out of use with sledgehammers, paint and graffiti against the TAV and the 'high surveillance' regime inflicted on anarchists locked up in the prison of Ferrara.

Perugia, January 7, 2016: unexploded explosive device outside Banca Etruria subsidiary

We learn from the media of the regime that a parcel bomb was found in front of the Banca Etruria subsidiary on the morning of January 7, 2016 in the village of Ponte S. Giovanni, in the province of Perugia.

The bomb was blown up by the carabinieri bomb squad of Perugia after a client of the bank reported it at around 09:30. Inside the package – placed on the pavement outside the entrance – were a few cans containing nails connected to a battery with electrical cables and some fertilizer.

Obviously the "Victims of Savings Banks" association and Tuscan consumers association dissociate themselves and condemn the bomb.

Two fires: the first at 18.30 in via Monaco in Spini, the second at 19.00 at Tavernaro. Two deliberately started fires that struck mobile telephone repeaters. No writings or claims have been found, but the men of the Digos [political police] have also intervened given that it is suspected that the act was carried out by anarchists.

The first fire, at 18.30 yesterday, involved a power unit in Gardolo. The intervention of fire fighters and volunteers succeeded in extinguishing the flames within a short time. But half an hour after the first alarm, another arrived. This time it was the Wind pylon at Tavernaro, in the 'Moià' area. The volunteer fire department of Cognola and the permanent fire brigade of Trento went to the scene. However the efforts of the fire fighters could not save the antenna, which was completely destroyed by the flames.

Florence, CasaPound bookshop/meeting place attacked

Lecce, Italy – Election headquarters of “Noi con Salvini” [With Salvini*] trashed ?

Salvini is the leader of the Northern League party, now hunting for votes in southern Italy (in alliance with right-wing parties) amid strong protests from the local population.

LECCE, 9th May 2015.

On the eve of Matteo Salvini’s election campaign visit to the city, unknown people trashed a window of the “Noi con Salvini” committee during the night. The committee supports one of the centre right-wing candidates at the local elections.

On 11th May Salvini’s presence at the Tiziano Hotel in Lecce was opposed with shouts, insults and throwing of eggs. In order to meet his supporters Salvini was forced to enter the back door escorted by police.

The protest ended after traffic was blocked for half an hour on the highway to Brindisi, adjacent to the hotel.

Val Susa, Sometimes something interesting: the car of Hotel Ninfa owner up in flames!

Every now and again something interesting also happens in the Susa Valley, extending the front of attack on the high speed rail to peripheral areas in collusion with the TAV lobby can widen the field of struggle.
: 9 May 2015

The possibilities of intervention could potentially become infinite, making the valley territory more ungovernable in terms of repression and control. Who knows, maybe some will dissociate themselves, that's in fashion, saying that these are mafia practices that don't belong to a certain movement, pointless chatter. Ending up on the internet isn't important, actions don't have to be accompanied by throngs of journalists and photographers ("friendly", of course!) ready to put any wisp of dust in the media spotlight. Attacking power in its physical manifestations means doing it at any moment and anywhere that it manifests itself, both directly and through the tentacular collusion it establishes. From Piemonte Indymedia Avigliano, Turin. A Mercedes parked outside the Ninfa Hotel goes up in flames during the night. The hotel is already infamous for hosting police and carabinieri deployed in the Susa Valley, and for giving space to a conference organized by the Democratic Party in support of the High Speed rail. Apparently the car belongs to Enzo Savant, the hotel owner.

be, take life as it comes, believe that they are born to be slaves, and content themselves with the little that is given them in exchange for their labour. But there are others, on the contrary, who think, who study, and who, looking about them, discover social iniquities. (Auguste Vaillant)

We are not so short-sighted as to believe that this global war has such clear and sharp sides. Just as we recognize the enemies of freedom, we cannot bear the resignation and tolerance of those who are willing to give a piece of their lives every day. That is why we don't delude ourselves that we are working for any revolution, we see clearly that the only anarchy realisable is what we experience when we finally free ourselves of every burden and decide to attack power. An experience that we feel we share with comrades around the world participating in the project of spreading the F.A.I / F.R.I. anarchist seed.

Tonight we planted this seed in the form of an explosive device placed in one of the key locations of State repression dispersed throughout the territory: the court of Civitavecchia. We decided to take our freedom ourselves. We have sharpened tools, analysed tactics, because we thirst for anarchy, and we are impatient.

Courts and prisons are simply outposts of dominion; places that are not just symbolic, but physical, where the State and the authorities stamp those who do not conform to the dictates of global control with the brand of condemnation, guilt, imprisonment and exclusion.

While holy doors are opening wide to spread miserable feelings such as mercy and compassion, we are breaking down ideological and real walls to allow the real hatred that motivates us to be reconciled with the love of a free life. Today we acted convinced that don't want to carry the experiences of the comrades we have lost, like those who are locked up or on the run, in some antrum of our heart, but free them, leaving them to arm our hands, warm our flesh.

That is why our greeting goes to the comrades and prisoners who with their non-submission contribute to the spreading of joyful conscious subversion.

Civitavecchia – FAI / FRI communique for attack on the court

We receive anonymously and spread:

My heart abhors and defies
The powerful of the earth,
my arm makes war on the cowardly oppressor
(Rebel Love – Pietro Gori)

We are living in a state of permanent global war, the perpetual war between oppressors, we know it and we know the main and secondary characters of dominion. Above all the oppressed know it, those who suffer arbitrary power over their lives.

Right now we are witnessing the passage of tanks and military in the streets of the rich and opulent West, the increase in controls and garrisons in defence of the order of commerce and consumption, the militarization of the territory.

Changes that strike even the most dormant minds, but which the strategy of global control will try to make us digest.

Among the exploited, gentlemen, there are two classes of individuals. Those of one class, not realizing what they are and what they might

Udine, – IT attack on the power of attorney with extortion intent

11th June 2015) we learned about an IT attack on the computers of the prosecutor's office of Udine, carried out through a new version of CryptOLocker (the targets of the attack were prosecutors' offices all over Italy and several other public and private bodies).

The virus has recently struck the computers of two judges from Friuli with a precise aim: grab everything contained in their hardware (judicial stuff of various kinds), encrypt it and keep it 'seized' until a ransom is paid, i.e. until the judges pay between 300 euros and a thousand euros, the amount generally required to get seized files back (however in previous similar cases files were not returned).

It is sufficient for recipients to click a link in their e-mail to make the system go haywire, irremediably blocking it and obscuring it.

Cremona, Cell phone mast and Casapound member's car set on fire

In the night between 19th and 20th August 2015 a cell phone mast was set on fire in solidarity with Emilio, a comrade who had been seriously injured by Casapound fascists and subsequently stricken by the repression following the same event. On the asphalt in front of the mast was graffiti saying: 'Revenge for Emilio'.

Militants of the social centre Dordoni immediately took a distance from the action and declared: "From the local media we learn that in the vicinity of the cell phone mast set on fire on Via Castelveverde, graffiti 'Revenge for Emilio' was found. We are not cops, are not accusing anybody or rushing to conclusions. If ever need be we reiterate that Antifascism is a very serious matter that needs to be addressed without further ado. We think that a cell phone mast set on fire doesn't seem to work towards this end."

Moreover in the early hours of 20th June the car of Gianluca Galli, responsible for Casapound in Cremona was set on fire and completely destroyed.

Saronno – Italian Post Office tagged against Mistral Air and in solidarity with Lecce comrades

We learn from the local media on 27 January 2016 that the facade of the Via Manzoni branch of the Italian Post Office was daubed with slogans against the deportation of migrants by Mistral Air, opposition to the CIE [detention centres], and solidarity to the comrades arrested in Lecce because their struggle against them

Passions are desires transformed into action, the most wonderful gestures of life in the face of the pervasive banality of the spectacle. It is this passion without limits that exploded that night in Brescia. The questions we put to who wrote that text are:

Do actions not speak for themselves?

Why talk about actions now?

We didn't like reading 'this is the pressure that exploded that night in Brescia', concerning that action, even it was written in 'good faith'. We didn't live it like that. Actions per se don't always speak for themselves, and this is proof of it.

Bologna, Police car in flames in solidarity with the anarchists under house arrest in Modena and Parma

From the local media we learn that in the night between 9th and 10th September 2015 a police car parked in the yard of the Sant'Orsola hospital went on flames. In the vicinity a leaflet in solidarity with the antifascists arrested in Parma and Modena was found. It read: 'Let's strike fascists and their protectors.'

Freedom for Andrea, Pippo and Tommi. Cops murderers, no truce for you.'

Genoa, Italy – Action in solidarity with the antifascists hit by repression

On Saturday (26th September 2015) afternoon, shortly before Forza Nuova new premises were inaugurated, traffic on the entrance and exit ramp of the Genova-Nervi toll booth was disrupted by a group of people in solidarity, who threw firecrackers and fixed a banner on a chain locked on both sides of the road; the banner read: 'SOLIDARITY WITH TOMMI, ANDREA AND PIPPO. DEATH TO THE FASCISTS'.

A carabinieri car came over but remained afar and didn't prevent the people in solidarity from completing the action and then disappear without trouble.

Andrea, Pippo and Tommy were arrested on 27th August between Modena and Parma by the ROS Carabinieri, and detained under house arrest with the charge of incendiary attack on a house in the Parma area, where Casa Pound supporters were planning a political event. The fire occurred in April 2014.

Bologna, Railway sabotage on the eve of a Northern League rally – claim

We receive from anonymous mail and transmit:

“In the night between 7th and 8th November we sabotaged the high speed railway lines Bologna-Milano, Bologna-Piacenza and Bologna-Verona by putting fire to the bundles of optical fibres running in the conduits parallel to the railway, and in this way we caused significant delays to the railway traffic in the Bologna hub.

A Northern League's national demo was to take place on 8th November in Bologna, and we thought it right to do something to hamper it at the very least. By sabotaging the railway lines we tried to obstruct or at least slow down the Northern League guys' coming, as they would travel by train, and to make the cops' job more

We are using the means we consider appropriate, seeking growth in the minimal details of the action. In that sense this action is nothing in terms of material damage, but it is important in arming our self-organization, especially at a time when we sense great resignation among anarchists in Italy.

We attacked one of the armed wings of the state. Cops from all over Italy and other states are trained at this 'school'. This is also a little signal against war.

We are in solidarity with all those who struggle against all states and capital.

Our thoughts go to the many comrades who are repressed, locked up, tortured or killed at the present time and in the past. In solidarity with all prisoners in struggle.

This is a signal of complicity to those who are locked up: To Alfredo for shooting Adinolfi; to Chiara (NO TAV anarchist) for the attack on the construction site; to Nicola Gai, who with Alfredo kneecapped the Ansaldo managing director, which is the least he deserved; to Nico (NO TAV anarchist).

To Monica and Francisco, who are resisting in the Spanish prisons with simplicity and dignity.

To Tamara Sol, who showed us how to avenge our comrades.

To Nikos for his simple and humble contribution to a call for struggle.

To the comrades of the CCF.

To the comrades who struggle in prison and outside.'

Reply to the text entitled 'Under pressure'.

The main push to action is not pressure that makes us explode, but unlimited passion that liberates.

That is what pushed us to arm ourselves that night in Brescia: The passion of trying to free ourselves from exploitation, that of a life that deserves to be lived, the passion for freedom.

Brescia, Italy – Claim of the attack on the police training centre [18th December] 2015 and communiqué of Cellula Anarchica acca

‘During the night between 17th and 18th December we placed a device (8 kg of gunpowder) at the police ‘training centre’ in Brescia. A symbolic action intended to cause material damage.

We chose that time so as not to harm people indiscriminately. With this action we began our projectuality of Anarchist attack as Cellula Anarchica acca (C.A.A) in affinity with the black international, and add ourselves to the call for action for a BLACK DECEMBER.

We are joining this trajectory because:

We like the idea of an international coordination of anarchists for direct action.

Our idea of ‘complicity’ goes beyond groups and factions.

difficult after they had armoured up the city in order to defend these guys.

We didn’t want everything to go according to the plans of those who militarized the streets.

We decided to carry out this action on the eve of the Northern League rally; however we want to point out that Salvini [the Northern League leader] and the racists who follow him are but one of the many expressions of the same system, a system rotten and unjust to the roots, and for this reason it must be only destroyed. One of the ways to begin with can be to jam it, block it, and it is not necessary to comply with imposed deadlines as one can act also by setting one’s own time.

There exist so many possibilities in spite of the constant progress in control and repression technologies.

Precisely because the system is becoming increasingly complex and pervasive, it needs certain infrastructures that cannot be constantly controlled and have quite delicate points.

To identify them and hit at them is not impossible, what is needed is some reasoning and at times also simple rags soaked in common petrol.’

Bergamo, Symbolic action against A.Locatelli, a murderous fascist from Bergamo

From the local media we learn that during the night between 2nd and 3rd October a symbolic action was carried out against the revered and honoured figure of Antonio Locatelli, a bloodthirsty fascist from Bergamo. The fountain erected in his memory was painted in blood red and a banner attached to it, reading: 'A. Locatelli, bloodthirsty murderer'.

Bologna, 17th November: road blocked and ATM damaged 2015

BOLOGNA DURING THE NIGHT OF SATURDAY 7TH NOVEMBER, AWAITING SALVINI, VIA EMILIA LEVANTE WAS BLOCKED WITH TWO SKIPS IN FLAMES. THE WINDOWS OF NEARBY ETRURIA BANK WERE SMASHED WITH HAMMERS. GRAFFITI LEFT: WAR ON THE BANKS NOT AMONG THE POOR.

Genoa, Sabotage in a yard in solidarity with those arrested following the No Expo demo

Claim: December 2015

'GENOA (PORTO ANTICO): The driver's side of a caterpillar track belonging to the company MARINI, a front runner in Earth's devastation, was set on fire.

Solidarity with all those arrested and put under investigation following the revolt of 1st May in Milan.

Against anyone who dissociated themselves from the demo and regarded it as too noisy and uncontrollable, and also against anyone who from Milan to Cremona, from Turin to Genoa dissociated themselves from acts of sabotage carried out on the "Italian soil".

In spite of the events in Paris and the blatant intensifying of cops' presence in the city, I acted and will act with the same tension, passion and fear that make me different from the masses.

An Anarchist'

Milan, ATMs trashed in solidarity with the comrades arrested in Italy and Greece

Turin/Milan, Sabotage on the railway

We receive from anonymous mail and transmit:

"IN THE NIGHT BETWEEN 19TH AND 20TH NOVEMBER 2015 WE PLACED AN INCENDIARY DEVICE IN THE CONDUIT RUNNING NEXT TO THE RAILWAY LINE TURIN/MILAN. ONWARDS WITH SABOTAGE ON THE TENTACLES OF THE SYSTEM! DEATH TO CAPITAL AND THE STATE"

Italy , Active solidarity with those arrested following the 1st May's demo against Expo in Milan

[...] As soon as they got in, the police officers didn't take long to realize who the people quickly running away were. In fact, at the bottom of the room they found a hole on the floor, a perfectly lighted well leading deep down. A note left near the opening of the hole read: 'Solidarity between anarchists is not made of words only'.

We give the postpay number for donations contributing to the legal expenses faced by the comrades arrested following the 1st May's demo in Milan.

In the struggle and in prison we stand against state repression that wants to forcibly instil terror in the life of anyone who struggles every day and rebels against the rules of a democracy we don't recognize as ours.

FOR ANARCHY!
