

If the State is exploiting anything, it is none other than the inaction that has been established as a natural condition. Soon it will be too late, and authority will only show mercy to those who kneel submissively before its omnipotence.

The capitalist economy needs to sell security to society, a miserable, sleeping society. The capitalist machine, its cops in uniform and the shit that surrounds them are there to make people obey orders then consume shit and buy plastic trinkets like mobile phones.

Of course an economic crisis does not bring the repression, but the migrants, the virus, the fires and the opponents. Governments will use anything to increase surveillance of the masses, to sow fear, boredom through screens, just follow the apps and you are safe.

Some, of course, do not follow orders but are consciously on the other side, resisting against empty capitalist reality. Some continue the struggle in the cells of tyranny. For them and for us. Let's bring the fires from the forests to the city. Let the aristocrats, the security forces and their masters pay every price for the disasters.

A glimpse of attacks and sabotage in Greece from July to December 2023

CLAIM FOR THE BARRAGE OF INCENDIARY ATTACKS BY "NAEL M."
INCENDIARY INITIATIVE CITY OF PATRAS

In the early morning hours of Friday 30/06/23 we carried out incendiary attacks on vans belonging to the companies "Kotsovolos" and "Ena". Companies like these and many other capitalist companies are pillars of the capitalist system.

The action took place on the day of the victory of the hunger strike of comrade Giannis Michailidis and the period of 2 political trials, the 4 comrades in custody accused of the attack on the traffic police of Piraeus and the 3 comrades accused of participation in the organization Anarchist Action.

We send our solidarity and wishes for a speedy recovery to comrade G.M. and all the imprisoned comrades and we wish them a speedy return to the paths of freedom. We do not forget the prisoners of war and always keep a special place for them in our burning hearts.

Solidarity with the rebels and insurgents of France.

P.S.1 The date was not chosen at random. Vassilis Maggos lives through our struggles. And even if we do not win, we will always fight.

P.S.2 Earlier on the same day another State and capitalist crime took place with the murder of dozens of immigrants in Pylos. We promise that we, for our part, will turn tears into fire and take revenge.

Athens :vandalise Syntagma waterfall with red paint in solidarity with Palestine

On Christmas night, activists covertly made a spectacle in the tourist hub of Athens, Syntagma square. The anonymous actors poured red paint into the central waterfall of the busy square, while scattering leaflets reading “long live Palestine” “long live the resistance” and “long live Gaza”.

Anonymous activists torch central Athens Christmas tree on New Year’s Eve with makeshift flame thrower, in solidarity with Palestine.

The action took place in the touristic centre of Athens. Nearby, champagne glasses overflowing with ignorance were enjoyed, while flames of rage engulfed the fake Christmas tree.

For the principled among us, this season’s many trees and decorations failed to symbolise Christmas, but rather served as a reminder of the fake humanity and capitalistic individualism that allows people to ‘celebrate’ while the Zionists continue their genocidal campaign against Palestinians in Gaza and bomb the birthplace of Jesus.

This year, the only bright lights in Gaza are from light bombs and the glow of white phosphorous. The fiery nature of the action in Athens, is intended to express radical solidarity with the Palestinian resistance.

Athens, For the explosion in the area of Haidari at the house of the chief prison guard at Korydallos prison

We chose to attack his vehicle with a defensive grenade to make it clear that there will be consequences and immediate responses to any form of behaviour, actions and decisions taken by ridiculous little petty people who think they can impose themselves on the backs of the cops and judges.

This time we sent a message to one of the thousands of scoundrels who are plaguing the country and especially the prison system. You must understand that we can attack whenever and wherever we want, understand that you are NOT immune.No guards of humans, no warden, no prosecutor should sleep peacefully serving the interests of the cops and the government against prisoners.We can just as easily next time make sure that the grenade does not only cause property damage. So think very carefully before making any decision against the prisoners.

City of Patras : Taking responsibility for the attack on the French Consulate

On the evening of Thursday 6th July we attacked the French Consulate in Patras while it was being guarded by police forces. A group of comrades moved under the nose of the police guard, which was on the spot with a cage set up to prevent an attack on the consulate, and threw bottles of red paint at it. The police forces were right in front of the building and when we appeared we pushed them away; as a result they ran and “calmly” hid behind the cage, in the words of their president.

Our action is dedicated to 17-year-old Nahel Merzouk who was murdered in cold blood on June 27 by the uniformed dogs of the French state and the other boy murdered in the social uprising that is shaking France. It is also a signal of internationalist solidarity with our class brothers and sisters who are rebelling in France and experiencing the violence of the state.

The only answer to state violence and capitalist barbarism is none other than mass, organised, social-class resistance and counter-attack.

On Saturday 15/7 we chose to consign a van belonging to Hellenic Train (formerly TRAINOSE) to the flames. A company that, even after the Tempi murder, continues to show complete disregard for its infrastructure, with the state's blessing, resulting in our fellow human beings being exposed to mortal danger on a daily basis. The incidents that have occurred since Tempi are already many and if it were not for the timely and responsible attitude of workers to prevent and fix the shit that corporate indifference and profit spreads, we would have had more, many more, incidents.

It is these workers who lost their colleagues/s in Tempe, who went on strikes, who warned, who were vilified by the media and the state the next day as supposedly co-responsible for the Tempe incident. Our solidarity with their struggles is a given.

SYMBOLIC SABOTAGE AGAINST THE PLUNDER OF NATURE

Imperialism creates a bleak future, full of wars, poverty and misery. We say that it is never too late to take the first decisive step. Weapons are nothing more than tools of political action, they become meaningful when they reflect a political and social content. The political core of the proletarian guerrilla strategy has as its starting point the balancing of the negative political/class correlation and sets as its goal the development in terms of strength of an alternative political proposal, where proletarian interests are at its center. To complete this turbulent journey history forces us to stop at many ports and to do so we must stand up to the daily questions it poses.

With a view to the abolition of capitalist relations of production. The destruction of the political forms of domination of the bourgeoisie. The disengagement from the European Union and NATO. The revolutionary transformation of social relations. After all, the best answer to those who are in a hurry to end the history of struggles and revolutions is the struggles of the oppressed who are fighting imperialism and exploitation. The fighting proletarians who stand up to the barbaric policies of the system. From the heroic Palestinian resistance to the massive anti-Zionist demonstrations all over the planet. History is totally unpredictable. All it takes is a spark to start a fire. And then if we are not ready we will not be able to do anything. For every person, in addition to their individual responsibility, has another responsibility. That of the shadow of responsibility in the face of injustice. We will stand up for Proletarian Justice for all those killed by police violence. We have a responsibility to fight for them. With a gun in our hands and the vision of a new world in our hearts.

ARMED PROLETARIAN JUSTICE

Athens: Claim for attack on “AB Vasilopoulos” supermarkets

In the autumn of 2023, a new labour law of A. Georgiadis was passed. Among other things the law includes : thirteen-hour contracts, zero-hour contracts, the complete abolition of the five-day working week, the illegalization of strikes, as well as the complete liberalization of dismissals, withdrawing any justification for them.

“AB Vassilopoulos” took advantage of the above by firing hundreds of employees the day after the law was passed. Thus, it is clear whose interests these laws really serve.

These movements do not come in a vacuum. At a time when the cost of living is soaring, burdening mainly those at the bottom, “AB Vassilopoulos” and the rest of the supermarkets are recording huge profits, as can be seen from their balance sheets and published financial data. Their profits come from the increase in prices on the one hand and from the compression of labour costs on the other. The state, not only does not “intervene”, but with laws or provisions it favours conditions that favour the bosses.

In the same pattern, it also supports other “big” sectors of the economy such as construction and energy capital, real estate and tourism, serving their predatory mood and satisfying any anti-labour demand they have, while also abolishing any control mechanism.

In this context, we attacked two shops of “AB Vasilopoulos” in Patisia and Polygono, on Monday 20/11 and Thursday 23/11 respectively, breaking their windows.

full well that, as a whole, the fascists in uniform condone or acquiesce in the murders, abuse and torture. We are well aware that they have been given the approval of the parastatal center in Maximus that there will be no consequences. We are also well aware of who they are targeting: the proletarian youth who are experiencing social exclusion and class inequality in their own skins, the political and class movements challenging state policy. We ask aloud. What else are we waiting for to happen? How much blood has to dry in the streets? Does anyone expect justice to be done by turning the other cheek?

In our 1st communique we want to be as clear as possible. The armed militants who choose to join the urban guerrilla are not aliens. They are the people next door. They are your colleagues at work, the proletarian on the scaffolding risking his life for a living wage of terror, the girl who lives for four months in the slums of the employers to serve drinks to tourists at a tourist destination, your classmates at your school, your neighbors on a picket line. The urban guerrilla is constituted as a pole of opposition to bourgeois ideology and dominant social norms. In this context we chose the formation of the Armed Proletarian Justice to modestly place our stone in the great mosaic of history and move forward. We draw valuable lessons from the historical experiences of previous armed organizations both at the domestic and international levels.

The Mitsotakis government has as its central axes of policy formulation the doctrine of law and order and the famous culture of excellence, the political continuation of secular modernization. These two axes are the carrot and the stick with which the party of the bourgeoisie, New Democracy, pursues government policy. At the political level, the doctrine of law and order and excellence are the pillars of government in its approach to the working people. Punishment when it misbehaves, reward when it complies, apotheosis when it serves the social norms cultivated by New Democracy through the media. This is the trptych that constitutes the production and enforcement of government policy positions. The famous executive state is nothing but a hub for distributing money to government courtiers, to lame-duck businessmen, to ministerial executives. The selling off of public property continues unabated. While privatizations in energy, health, universities, the natural environment, are widening the fields of profitability of Greek capital. Labor is systematically devalued and rights won through bloody struggles are criminalized overnight. At the same time, at the international level, Greek foreign policy is in full alignment with the policy of Western imperialism.

In the deluge of violence and terrorism of imperialism we see the coffins parading live, the youth in dismembered or bullet-riddled corpses buried in the ground, we see hypocrisy taking its place on the television screens. The dead children in martyred Palestine are dubbed terrorists, the dead children from police guns in Greece are dubbed dangerous thugs, the dead children in Tempe are dubbed a necessary sacrifice for the modernization of the railway network, the dead migrants on the Mediterranean coast are dubbed barbaric invaders. Everything is now clear: your death is my death.

But we are not blind and we recognize another form of violence that flourishes in the metropolises of imperialism. The violence of not giving a damn about your neighbor and looking only after yourself. Violence without blood, but violence that washes it away in silence. The dream of advancement offered by so-called class mobility buys consciences. Misinformation, which is a weapon in the hands of the system so that it can brainwash, annihilates moral standards to such an extent that one refuses to react to the crimes of the system. All it needs is the promise of an hire purchase car, a little money, a furnished apartment, a few days of carefree summer holidays and a night out. The system tries to convince us that our lives cannot exist outside of it.

We decided once again to make a symbolic gesture and throw a wind mast in the Laka batheti deep position next to the Motsara peak of the helicon. We note that this installation is added to a series of about 50 wind turbines

SYMBOLICALLY ATTACKED, THROWING PAINT AT THE ANEGERSIS CONSTRUCTION COMPANY

Having already had four years of operations of various kinds against the “enemy within”, the State will therefore attempt to deepen its attack on those from below in the period to come. The attempt to impose the dominant ideology on a number of issues is evident and is going on at many levels, especially if we observe the unanimity of the state and the dominant media. The above context leaves us no choice but to fight and create pockets of resistance of those from below. Action groups, neighbourhood patrols, communities of struggle in workplaces, schools or schools, clashes, sabotage are some of the tools of the excluded to respond to the state and the capitalist machine.

So, on Friday 28/7 we symbolically attacked, throwing paint at it, the ANEGERSIS CONSTRUCTION company whose headquarters are in Argyroupoli, and was the contractor responsible for doing the dirty work of cementing up the occupation of 56 Dervenion in Exarcheia. We do not forget the informers and minions of the state.

Immediate satisfaction of the prisoners' demands!

Taking responsibility for a vicious inflammatory attack on Eurobank in Athens by Anarchists

Every day power reveals its true face to us, oppressing and plundering our lives. So, in response, in the early hours of Sunday 24/9/2023 we carried out a simultaneous, disruptive and incendiary attack on a Eurobank branch on Evelpidon Street.

Technological sophistication and the militarization of urban tissues have formed a grid of generalized surveillance and monitoring of our movements. Security systems, continuous patrols, constant forces of ELAS officers, (Greek police)targeting and incessant surveillance are the methods through which power is unleashed.

Another method, which intensifies the regime of technological autocracy, is also the new identity cards which include fingerprints and precise biometric data, thus constituting another arrow in the system's quiver.

This climate of rot and misery is also confirmed by the new "anti-worker" bill, which legalizes 13 hours of slavery, "alternating" hours and out-laws strikes. It is therefore clear that living conditions in prison societies are becoming increasingly difficult.

Our minds and hearts could not fail to include those who are confined within the cells of bourgeois democracy, the visible prisons. Within the walls, the prisoners are waging a struggle of maximum alliance against the new penal code by carrying out hunger strikes and rationing.

Therefore, those who do not actively defy the system and power in general are equally as guilty as the oppressors, thus perpetuating our enslavement.

We propose counter-attack by every means, up to and including the demolition of the last prison, "visible and invisible", and practical solidarity with the individuals who are under the fire of power.

Athens: Responsibility Claim for the Attack on MAT/EKAM HQ in Greece by Armed Proletarian Justice

ΕΝΟΠΛΙΑ ΠΡΟΛΕΤΑΡΙΑΚΗ ΔΙΚΑΙΟΣΥΝΗ

Armed Proletarian Justice – Communique No.1

On 18/12 armed fighters of our organization approached the Central Camp of MAT (Units for the Reinstatement of Order)/EKAM (Directorate of Police Operations of Attica) in Kokkinopoulou Street and placed a bomb under the sentry post. You were lucky this time, the same will not apply next time. We dedicate our action to those who have been murdered, tortured, beaten and raped by the Greek Police. Armed struggle requires responsibility and political conscience. It is neither a hobby of some extremists nor a fetish of some fantasists. It is a political choice. Our primary concern was, is and will be in the future the protection of any person unrelated to our action. To ensure the safe removal of random passers-by, two warning calls were made where detailed instructions were given to the police. For us – and we stress this – it is of the utmost importance that no innocent person should be harmed in any way. The targets that we chose and will choose in the future – whether material infrastructure of the system or the personnel itself – will be clearly defined as such. We do not want to risk anyone else's safety. Even if it puts our own security at increased risk. We carry the enormous responsibility that comes with the de facto use of such means of struggle. Period.

In Greece there is a long historical tradition of urban guerrilla organizations. Their action, according to the historical context and the conditions of the period, has always been politically just, targeting the sell-out scum and the infrastructure of the political-economic establishment. With our action, the hollow proclamations of the New Democracy, which at every opportunity proclaims the definitive elimination of the urban guerrilla, have collapsed. We put into question the much advertised doctrine of law and order by targeting the MAT/EKAM headquarters. We will strike again at the right time, targeting the defiant representatives of the rotten political and economic system and their uniformed henchmen. That is, the culprits of the most heinous crimes committed in the name of the state. Next time the uniformed bastards will be facing the barrels of our guns. And that's no threat. Nor is it a warning. It's a commitment. We don't like arrogant grandstanding, but we do like consistency to define our political discourse. This police state relies on the power of guns, and anyone who wants to fight it must hold themselves to the same standard. We throw down the gauntlet and declare that we will speak the same language that the fascists of the Greek police understand; we have taken it on board, as the cops' guns are blazing.

We've established that killer cops never go to jail. We've established that the bodies of outcasts are targets for fascists. We've established that the NIDs (National Identification cards) are just bullshit papers. The moment everything is established, dialogue is abolished and the guns have their say. All this time you've been playing ball in your own stadium with your own grandstand. With the TV channels covering you defiantly, with politicians applauding you every time you pull the trigger, with judges bailing you out. These dark days are finally at an end. We know hidden in your holes, we will burn you inside them.

The choice of MP makes the second goalpost clear. The Greek state and its mechanisms are the main exponents of fascism towards society, they are the real fascist threat. The Golden Dawn fascists were defeated in that is, their usefulness for the state ended, they gave their place to the costumed fascists of the ND. and their minions. The sentence always remains the same: attack, attack, attack!

We do not consider ourselves an anti-fascist vanguard, nor our means the only means for this struggle. We call on everyone and all anti-fascists to rally, organize and participate with all means in the anti-fascist struggle. We call on all anti-fascist initiatives to escalate their struggle and use this particular signature for all their aggressive actions – smashing, arson, shootings, beatings, as well as to utilize and spread all the information they need and possess.

Fire signals to the Immediate Action Cores and support their attack on the house of Spartan MP Dimetrokallis.

The dynamic recovery of the evicted squatters by our comrades exemplifies a struggle for all of us.

No December ever ended.

The next attack will not be symbolic!

P.S. Especially in the matter of information, we give a great foundation from our side. Knowledge about houses, shops, vehicles, but also names of more "unseen" fascists and points that gather or work must be shared with all interested anti-fascists, putting aside personal feuds, political pettiness, elitism or even fears, thus creating an anti-fascist database which will be properly utilized for our purposes.

Athens: Arson Attack on the Home of Far-Right MP Yannis Dimitrokalis by Direct Action Cells

The Direct Action Cells carried out the arson attack on the home of the MP for Spartans (a far-right political party established in 2017) of Eastern Attica, Yannis Dimitrokalis, in the area of Ilizia during the morning of October 28.

The choice of the date was not accidental. The era of resistance to the Nazi occupiers and their local collaborators, the sacrifices, suffering, toil and struggles of hundreds of thousands of fighters during the period 1940-1949 is a political heritage which we actively defend against all kinds of historical revisionists and falsifiers. The political ancestors of Dimitrokalis, Kasidiaris (Ilias Kasidiaris, a far-right politician and one of the former leaders of Golden Dawn, who is still politically active despite being in prison since 2021) and his group are the ones who handed over to the Nazi German invaders the thousands of communists who were imprisoned and had begged in vain to be released to fight them.

They are the ones who put on a hood and became informers. They are the ones who became black marketers and condemned hundreds of thousands to hunger and misery.

They are the ones who became Hitlerites and National Socialists, swore allegiance to the Third Reich and fought on the side of the Germans and then the British imperialists. So let all these penny-pinching patriots know that history has recorded the political ancestors of Kasidiaris and his followers as the accomplices of those who stepped with their fascist boots on the heads of those who fought with their blood for altars and hearths.

With our attack shortly before the anniversary of the execution of the two neo-Nazis in Neo Heraklion by the organization "Fighting People's Revolutionary Forces", we wanted to send a message of militant anti-fascism by targeting a member of the largest far-right party in Greece at the moment. November 1 is a rallying point for fascists on a pan-European level. For us, November 1 symbolizes the political dynamic of armed action, its historical significance, its timeless necessity. It symbolizes the day when the constant victimization of the left and parts of the anarchist space were deafeningly shattered. Let us not forget that many political forces that are now rushing to participate in the anti-fascist rallies were the ones who, in the face of the fear of fascists and repression, had condemned the action and spoke of agent provocateurs and reactionaries.

The Spartans essentially belong to Ilias Kasidiaris, who managed to rally the largest percentage of the far-right in Greece. By peddling an anti-establishment image from behind bars he managed to recognize an objective reality. In so-called western capitalist societies there is a trend in the electorate to look with interest at developments to the right of the political system. The so-called "alt-right with a tie" is represented by powerful parties across Europe, taking advantage of the shift of the popular right current to more center-right paths, but also of the political integration of the left in the first phase and eventually the anarchist movements as "radical" wings of the liberal camp. The retreat to a large extent of the more cutting-edge sectors of the radical left and anarchism across Europe has created a political vacuum that is also found in the "street struggle" which is exploited by the fascist bloc, offering a vague and muddled in its essence, anti-establishment perspective and presence on the street. Even people disgusted by the political system and young people who metabolize their need for conflict by participating in fascist rallies, are turning to it.

Kasidiaris cleverly foresaw the whole situation and exploited it to the full. A typical example of the fluid social and political reality of modern societies is the emergence of the Spartans as currently the largest far-right party in Greece. A party unknown to everyone, 20 days before the second elections in June, managed to become what it is today, only with the support of the incarcerated Kasidiaris, the vanguard of the far-right in Greece.

Of course the extent to which any of these people are anti-establishment, from Kasidiaris to Dimitrokalis to the party's leader, Stigkas, became clear in the only battle they have fought since the first moment they appeared on the political landscape of this country – the constant fight that the far-right rabble are always fighting, which is none other than the battle for their own self-interests and money. Historically, they have proven that behind every crime they commit is always the pursuit of financial gain. They chase it like a fly chasing shit. This time there was an internal party war over parliamentary funding. Whoever controlled the party would control the money. They gave us plenty of laughs with the mutual accusations of mafia, Stigka's accusations of being threatened and having his party taken away from him, but mostly with the last (for now) act of the drama, their single-mindedness in the pursuit of their common goal: not losing their funding.

The laughter and the fleeting sense that we are watching a comedy have dried up. This garbage obeys, in one way or another, a political figure whose trajectory needs to have the brakes pulled on it. The same brakes that were pulled on No-

ACCEPTANCE OF RESPONSIBILITY FOR ANTI-FASCIST BARAGE-CALL TO CALL-ANTI-FASCIST FIRE

Athens ,We claim responsibility for the following attacks on fascist targets:

i) In the early hours of 11/17, we placed an incendiary device in the house of the former member of the Hellenic Solution, Anastasia Aikaterini Alexopoulou, in Zografou. The Hellenic Solution is a far-right party that sought to replace Golden Dawn in Parliament, and has been there since 2019. Velopoulos's party went to the elections promoting the whole extreme agenda and mainly fences and machine guns on the borders. Now these costumed fascists have ended up a funny opposition that turns its back on the government to pay off its debts. (After the act we have been informed that this particular piece of trash has moved from the house that was recently targeted, such an operational error will not be repeated)

ii) In the early hours of 11/17, we also placed an incendiary device in the house of the fascist of the neighbourhood of Zografou, Vassilis Barletis. After using information, Barletis, a well-known fascist in the area, was added to the itinerary and we decided to leave him a gift from us in his view.

iii) In the early morning of 3/12 we planted an incendiary device at the house of Propatria member Giorgos Angelidis in new Faliro. Propatria is a fascist group that makes various impressive appearances in the centre of Athens, paints some slogans, takes pictures, leaves quickly-quickly and through social media he tries to convince that they are big and jerks. Since you always leave before we arrive, we decided to come to your homes this time.

"The King is dead. Long live the King."

This phrase clearly describes what has been happening to the fascists-far-right-nationalists in Greece in recent years. At the same time as thousands of moderate "anti-fascists" were celebrat ing the jailing of the gold down neo-nazis outside the appeals court, "the monster was in orgasm again" and was giving birth to the next phase of the extreme right in Greece. The "parties" for the victory over fascism and a few months ago three extreme right-fascist parties entered the Parliament and various fascist groups hang out undisturbed in the neighbourhoods and in the city centre. With one party even being led by one of the biggest members of the X.A. (Golden down neonazis ), Ilias Kasidiaris. Expected for some, "bring me a cloud to fall" for some others. Greek voters will continue to vote for far-right and fascist parties as the characteristics of fascism are deeply imprinted in the consciousness and morality of all its supporters and is not a peculiar privilege of those in power. The solution to this issue does not come with vague condemnations, with civil courts nor with the absence of such parties from the elections. The solution comes with the uprooting of all these formations from every point where they spring up and act. A full-frontal attack on all fascist enclaves, on the "official" far-right, to the fascists of Propatria, to your racist neighbour and to the homophobic employee of the respective store.

The selection of targets to attack as the first action of the "venture" is intended to demonstrate that no fascist scum will escape. The recent past has shown us that we should not and will not let them raise their heads even a little. Lately we have noticed a growing desire to get out of their holes. Of course due to lacking any momentum they are past in funny movements, quickly taking pictures posing as "hard fascists" and then they disappear in seconds without anyone noticing them. The only thing they achieve this way is to set themselves as the next targets. And stay

Athens, Exarxeia area: Taking responsibility against gentrification and displacement by Anarchists

The gentrification of the neighbourhood of Exarchia continues at a rapid pace. Our rents are going up, Airbnbs are springing up everywhere, Cyrille-hipster shops are opening one after the other and groups of tourists are socializing with the cops continuing to pollute our neighbourhood with their presence.

At the same time, the control and surveillance of the area with dozens of cameras reinforces the repressive apparatus of state and capital which, together with the cops, are attempting to sweep and destroy of resistance, self-organization, occupations, the Exarcheia of rebellion. Latest attack: on the trees of the square, one of the few green spots in the neighbourhood.

A strategy fully in tune with the grim times we live in, where the bleeding from the bosses is reinforced by the anti-drug bills, the cost of living continues to rise creating suffocation, the cops continue their murderous work (see the murder of the Roma Christos and the beating of the 16-year-old anti-fascist Vasilikis), while announcements about changes to the Criminal Code foretell a future in which prison will be the immediate response to those who resist. At the same time, capital continues to flow abundantly into the hands of the few and business flourishes in the Exarcheia where we see, among others, Israeli business magnates getting rich through the displacement of the local working class, at the same time as Palestinian blood has drenched the Middle East .

But, as is known everywhere, exploitation and repression will always give rise to resistance and this is an inviolable rule from history. Putting our own minimal effort into this norm, we choose to strike back within our own neighbourhood, targeting the infrastructures of gentrification, control, and repression. We call for corresponding sabotage in every neighbourhood affected by the onslaught they call “development”.

- We smashed short-term rental housing complexes: Asklipiou 162, st. Komnion 8, st. Mavromichali and Vatatzi st.
- We trashed Airbnb cameras and storage boxes.

member 1st in New Heraklion with the execution of Foundoulis and Kapelonis, the same brakes that historically the militant anti-fascist movement has always pulled by sending fascists to the hospital, setting fire to their vehicles and houses and by crushing them en masse on the street. The Spartan circus was electorally supported with more than 240,000 votes, and however ridiculous their infighting over government money may have been, it remains the most powerful force on the far-right and a magnet for even more people drawn to the fascist camp.

Our device at Dimitrokalis' house is only a first message for the celebration of the anniversary of November 1. Let us remind all this garbage that the Armed Revolutionary Organizations put a tombstone on the assault battalions of that era. To send a message to our own people that only a radical struggle can make us a real threat again to face the growing fascist menace both on a societal level and on the street. To make it clear to them what awaits them every time they think they are leaving with or without a European escort. The militant sects of the antifascist movement alone will make them crawl both on 1 November and for a long time to come, just as so many of their 'fellow fighters' were crawling when they experienced the impact of antifascist action firsthand.

Athens: Taking responsibility for the attack on a member of the fascist group propatria in Nea Ionia on Heraklion Avenue.

On 28 October we chose to visit the coffee bar berry in Nea Ionia on Heraklion Avenue while Dionysis Karagiannis, a member of the fascist group propatria, was working there. Once again a member of propatria showed us his fighting skills by running to hide in the store's warehouse. Propatria is a group that acts and moves invisibly, with little presence on the streets and usually for a short time, in the context of captions, “quotes” and in terms of spectacle, trying in this way to reach the youth, forcing the antifascist movement to take on the role of detective in order to reach its members.

.Our victories and our defeats, our mistakes and our self-criticism, our tenderness and our hardness, our contradictions and our certainties will never find their place in the enemy's camp. They will be the raw material for the next proletarian offensive, for the next assault on the sky.

Athens, If you were invisible, would you rob a supermarket? by ALIENATION_2.0

At noon on Saturday 4/11, an expropriation took place at s/m My Market on Agia Sophia Street, in one of the most central parts of the Vyrvna neighbourhood.

Supermarkets have always been one of the businesses that never miss an opportunity to turn every crisis into an opportunity to multiply their profits on our backs in a variety of ways. Either by draining their workforce with meager wages and flexible hours, or by imposing exorbitant mark-ups on all their products, with priority given to basic necessities further hampering our quality of life.

Supermarkets have always been one of the businesses that never miss an opportunity to turn every crisis into an opportunity to multiply their profits on our backs in a variety of ways. Either by draining their workforce with meager wages and flexible hours, or by imposing exorbitant mark-ups on all their products, with priority given to basic necessities further hampering our quality of life.

We live to work, we live to rent, our salaries end on the 1st week of the month and in this condition the state tries to convince us that the “household basket” and the crumbs it called market pass constitute social policy. In the same vein, the “social policy” of humiliating compensations and accommodation in camps and stadiums with which it tried to convince the affected residents of the Thessalian plain that their lives will be restored. In the same situation, the entrepreneurs of the supermarkets, as modern-day black marketeers even took advantage of the lack of drinking water in the wider area of ??flooded Thessaly city by selling bottled water even more expensively. While the populations affected saw mud and debris, bosses studied balance sheets, turnover and profit margins.

EVERYTHING IS OURS BECAUSE EVERYTHING IS STOLEN

So we grabbed dozens of essentials from My Market (oil, cleaning products, toiletries) and left collectively without paying a cent. These products have already been given to people in Thessaly who really needed them, strengthening the hundreds of movements of solidarity that have been expressed throughout this time by the self-organized movement towards the affected. This small movement of expropriating and sharing what we need is inspired by the overall movement of counter-attack and recovery required to take back everything that we are deprived of daily and really need.

We don't expect anything from anyone. We are collectively organizing against the continued devaluing of our lives. Fight for life and dignity.

We call for the proliferation of similar direct actions.

EXPLOIRATION_2.0

PS We decided to film our movement and share it to break the orchestrated silence of the media and to inspire similar initiatives...

Athens, Fire to the ATTIKO METRO machinery! (excerpt)

In the early hours of November 17th, we attacked and set fire to 3 ATTIKO METRO machines at the construction site of line 4 in the area of Kaisariani at the junction of Ethnikis Antistaseos and Filolaou streets.

Our action is the conceivable sequel of the slogan that we shouted so many times together with thousands of other demonstrators at the gatherings and demonstrations against the destruction of Exarchia square by the cooperation of the state-contractors-Attiko Metro-municipal authority. Mobilizations that have intensified recently, after the invasion of the machinery in the square with the aim of clearing the area of trees, bushes, etc.

Finally, we chose our incendiary attack to take place at a time and day (early morning on November 17, 2023) when, according to media reports, 5000 thousand policemen were patrolling the streets of Athens ahead of the mobilizations for the 50th anniversary of the Polytechnic uprising. Our arson attack took place within breathing distance between the Kaisariani police station and the headquarters of the YMET (special units of the Greek Police) in Oulof Palme avenue, proving that the city belongs to those who wish to destroy order and not to those who are paid to enforce it. Now and always.

Athens : Expropriation of Sklavenitis supermarket in Upper Ilisia

On 16/12/2023 we went shopping in Ano Ilisia at the Sklavenitis supermarket, only our “shopping” was different this time as it had a 100% discount. How is this done, you ask? It's very simple. We got organized, entered the supermarket, took what we needed and left without letting them steal from us one more time. You see it's a matter of choice.

In this “celebratory” climate, where the public discourse is flooded with calls for help for the needy, we have chosen to show our solidarity by grabbing necessities from those who steal from us every day and share them with solidarity structures that support the most impoverished parts of society. We decided not to offer this solidarity from our non-existent reserve but by taking back from those who always gain on our backs.

No one has the right to step on our throats and blackmail us into choosing whether to pay the damn bills, the unreal rent, or eat. Our needs do not fit the “yes, but”, household baskets, and waiting for better days (that will not come). We bring the best days! We are life and they are the vermin of death. And let's not laugh; there are more of us and it is only a matter of choice whether to cut off the foot that is stepping on us. We (also) call for the proliferation of similar actions...

PS : Comradely greetings to the comrades who acted in a similar way days ago in Byronas and Patras.

profitable at our own expense and every four years they throw us a card to choose who will destroy our lives and sell us the fairytale of freedom. We are not fighting for a better democracy that will give us more crumbs, that will make us better consumers, that will kill a little more civilly. We are fighting for a world of solidarity, equality, freedom, for anarchy and this can only be done through the destruction of the state, capitalism, patriarchy, society and power.

How many more state murders, how many more wars, how many more immigrant women must drown and burn, how many more trains must collide. How many more people must be beaten and thrown off a ship, how many more children must be locked behind a garage door and murdered before the guilty eyes of the workers?

How many times must the state arm the hand of the cop who shoots and kills anyone who disobeys its orders and challenges its authority, until we realise that we must take life into our hands and throw it into the fire. In the fire that can manage to create blows to those who oppress our lives. The only thing left in the war we have with the state, capitalism, patriarchy, is to become an impetuous wave of resistance. To bring conflict back into everyday life and suppress oppression, exploitation, racism, power.

PS In general, we don't need specific reasons to attack multinationals because they are all shit. However, Renault produces and sells cars, and like all carmakers it makes patrol cars and cabs. Renault is a car company partially owned by the French state. And the French state has recently expanded its cooperation with the Greek one. Besides selling weapons to Greece (fighter planes and warships) French cops come to Greece with the intention of training cops for camera surveillance and advanced crowd control. France also supports the Greek state and Frontex in the war against migrants.

Athens, Claim for molotov attack on OPKE

On Thursday 16/11 we chose to attack the platoon of the notorious OPKE group (Crime Prevention and Suppression Groups,) at the junction of Navarinou and Charilaou Trikoupi streets. The result of the attack was the burning of the vehicle and the injury of some of them. Our attack is both a small crack in the enforced blockade of the area of the annexes by the uniformed scum of the Democracy, and a small reminder that nothing will go unanswered.

50 years after the Polytechnic uprising, 15 years after December '08, which erupted after the murder of the anarchist student Alexandros Grigoropoulos, the states and the capitalists have launched an attack of unprecedented intensity on the conquests won through blood and struggle. The intensity of the attack is experienced by the most impoverished sections of society who are subject to daily exploitation. The murders in the workplaces and work sites, at the borders, in prisons and police checkpoints are dubbed 'industrial accidents', 'isolated incidents', 'shootings' and occupy a single column in the margin of a newspaper. But they are clearly state and capitalist killings in an environment where our lives are devalued and expendable.

In a neoliberal environment where the bosses, whose sole criteria is to increase their profitability, aim the guns of the cops at the disposable, poor, outcasts and petty criminals. The forces of repression have always been the murderous assault battalions of bourgeois democracy.

The uniformed murderers have stained their hands with blood, blood that has not yet dried after the recent cold-blooded murder of the Roma Christos Michalopoulos in Voiotia, the murder of Kostas Manioudakis, the attempted murder of the 16-year-old girl B. in Neo Heraklion and the countless beatings of demonstrators, strikers, etc. The natural perpetrators and instigators of the above incidents were men of the OPKE, a gang of murderers and torturers.

To remind that no state murder will go unanswered, that the lives of the Roma count, that the blood flows and calls for revolt, interventions like these are an organic duty of every movement, organization, social process that has reference to the cause of social revolution. They are an organic task for the formation of a revolutionary movement so that the projections of social and class self-defence are not empty and heavy-handed declarations but positions of battle that actively challenge the monopoly of state/capitalist violence.

We send militant greetings to the antifascist comrades who have confronted the state and the fascists in the run-up to November 1, striking blows against the common front of cops and fascists, promoting solidarity and comradeship which remain our most powerful weapons.

Good Freedom to the guerrilla and member of the Revolutionary Struggle Pola Roupas and to comrade Kostas Dimalexis.

Solidarity to comrade Polykarpos Georgiadis (trial 13/12) and to those accused of the state frame-up called "comrades".

Strength to the comrades D.S. and R.Z. accused of attempted explosion in Thessaloniki.

Freedom for Palestine.

Nothing is over, everything continues.

Michalis Kaltezas* Cell

*Michalis Kaltezas, the murder took place during demonstrations on the anniversary of the Polytechnic uprising in 1985. The cop Athanasios

Melistas shot the 15-year-old student Michalis Kaltezas in the back of the head from a distance of twenty metres as he was running with other demonstrators towards Exarchia Square. Immediately after the death of Kaltezas, anarchists occupied the old Chemistry building on Solonos and the Polytechnic in protest.

On the morning of 18 November, the University Asylum Committee, chaired by the rector Michael Stathopoulos, gave permission for the police to enter the Chemistry building. The invasion was carried out with the use of tear gas, for the first time since 1976 and the police arrested 37 people and beat them severely, while a few managed to escape and reach the occupation of the Polytechnic through the sewers. This was the first lifting of the asylum since its official establishment in 1982. The riots in Athens continued in the following days.

The cop murderer was sentenced to two years imprisonment, but he appealed and was declared innocent. Revolutionary organization 17 November attacked a police van to revenge the death of Kaltezas; the attack resulted in the death of a police officer.

THE CONSPIRACY OF REVENGE : Taking Responsibility For The Attack On The House – Offices Of The Company ERGOMAR

We take responsibility for the attack on the home – offices of the ERGOMAR company of the well-known businessman Dimitris Marinelis, at 12 Hous Street, in Kifissia.

The reason the attack was carried out is to target the corrupt role of construction companies. It is an open secret that the collegium of politicians and big bosses share state resources and European funds, thus misappropriating large sums of money at the expense of the Greek people.

For years now, with direct assignments to their minions, they manage and obtain huge sums of money – kickbacks with the well-known over-budgeting of projects and materials needed for their implementation. Construction companies are the ones responsible for many workplace accidents, as in order to make as much profit as possible they reduce the necessary safety measures for workers.

Dimitris Marinelis' ERGOMAR has undertaken the construction and maintenance of large state and private projects, cooperating with the largest companies in Europe and the territory, such as AEGEAN, GERMANOS, COSMOTE, VODAFONE and many others.

Also, most important of all, is the involvement of the company with the fiasco of the close stadium Calatrava, which, on the one hand, with its implementation filled pockets with huge sums of money and on the other hand, the sums of money continuously granted for the maintenance of the canopy also ended up in the well-organized party of corruption, since the maintenance was never done, thus putting thousands of people at risk.

Nothing is finished in the face of state and capitalist brutality, we stand with strength and dignity against them.

Remember well that none of you will be in the bulletproof zone and we can visit you at any place and time we choose. By any means we choose.

You won't sleep easy thinking that your shenanigans will go unpunished.

P.S.: Regarding the establishment sites that made constant references to the fascist scumbag Konstantinos Bogdanos, journalist and former MP of the ridiculous Mitsotakis government, who 6 months ago lived in this area, we know very well where he lived and where he lives now (after all, in the past this particular person had received a visit, in the evening hours, as a result of which vehicles owned by him were burnt). When the time comes, we will visit him and not for material damage, but for acts befitting such bastards.

CONSPIRACY OF REVENGE

Taking Responsibility For The Confidential Attack On The Renault Dealership

It was early morning on October 15, the sky was completely dark. Municipal election day. We waited for the voters and the cops to move into the neighbourhood. The streets were almost empty. We reached our goal. We looked at each other with that spark in our eyes. Everything was clean. Nothing was stopping us. A few seconds before the action we wondered if it was worth it, fear took hold, but it is worth it for all the reasons in the world. Determination, the burning heart takes the place of fear. It's one of the few times you smile. We give the final OK. The person activates the incendiary device, places it under the car. He makes the signal. We walk away, each in turn, seeing that no one in the neighbourhood noticed what had happened. Minutes later, when we were away, in the safety of the dark of night, the device activated and reduced five cars to a flaming mess. If the neighbours hadn't been woken up by the sound of the fire, the fire siren certainly did it.

The only thing that makes sense in this miserable world we live in is to try to destroy it thoroughly. To resist it in every possible way. This small action is a contribution to this resistance. It is also an invitation to other individuals and groups to participate. There are state and capitalist goals everywhere all we need is a well organized plan and to overcome our fears individually and collectively.

At a time when despair and futility have prevailed, we respond that we do not need to hope for a better future to be able to resist a present that is killing us. With or without hope we will always fight.

We refuse to integrate into a system that is crushing our lives. Our desires are created and controlled by family, education, television. The reason we are useful to power is because we are
